General information

The Illinois Department of Revenue's education program provides instruction in areas where the department has a direct involvement in the assessment process. Most of these courses focus on using the information in the department's appraisal publications. Other courses deal with basic mapping for assessors, the complete property tax cycle, math calculations used in the assessing profession, the department's procedures for developing equalization factors, and conducting a sales ratio study and its use in reassessments.

Anyone may participate in these classes, all of which are free.

Classes are conducted at various locations throughout the state. Upon request, the department will conduct courses at locations other than those listed in the schedule, provided teaching staff is available and 25 or more students are enrolled. An adequate, handicap-accessible classroom facility with an overhead projector, a projection screen, and an extension cord must be provided.

Most classes are two-and-one-half day courses with the exam held on the morning of the third day. The "Advanced Special Structures" class is a three day course with an exam held on the afternoon of the third day.

Topics covered include: influences in determining value, the collection of general, locational, and economic data, specific site and improvement data, and comparative sales, cost, and income and expense data. General information

The Education 2000 Program provides assessing officials the framework and direction necessary to personalize their continuing education. Within the program, courses have been analyzed for content and assigned to six general categories. Within each category, courses have been slotted into three levels.

Categories

- ▶ Administration: Administration of the assessment office; computer usage
- ▶ Commercial: Assessment of commercial and industrial property
- ▶ Land: Assessment of land; assessment of farmland; mapping; GIS
- ▶ Residential: Assessment of residential property
- ▶ Statistics: Use of math and statistics in the assessment process
- ▶ Theory: Assessment and appraisal theory; legal issues; legislative issues

Hours per level and category

Level 1: 180 hours maximum, with up to 45 hours per category

Level 2: 420 hours maximum, with no restrictions

Level 3: No restrictions

Once an assessing official has achieved the designated number of either examination or seminar hours for a given category or level, he or she will advance to a new category or level to earn continuing education credits for a stipend. Students may take upper level courses without first completing all hours in the lower levels and return to the lower levels as long as they still have hours available.

Explanation of the three levels

Level 1: Level one courses generally require little or no prior experience or knowledge. Level one courses introduce a basic topic, concept, or theory. Level one includes basic administration, residential, commercial, land, statistics, and theory courses. Level one will generally include the following: basic appraisal theory, introduction of the three approaches to value, non-complex residential, commercial, and industrial properties, farmland, basic office administration, and introductory computer classes. Introductory material is featured in this study level. Exams reflect the course material and are of sufficient complexity to warrant credit. There may be several courses that introduce this information. Various organizations may provide different approaches to topics that are somewhat similar in scope, yet when combined give the students a broader base on which to build their skills.

Level 2: Level two courses usually require some prior experience or knowledge. Level two courses primarily build on materials introduced in the level one categories. This level builds upon the basics and brings the student to a tangibly higher level of expertise. This level may include limited review of basic materials. Courses generally include intermediate concepts, intermediate administrative principles, intermediate computer applications, intermediate theory, and intermediate coverage of the three approaches to value. Level two explores appraisal problems of more complex properties, such as complex residential properties, and commercial/industrial properties of medium complexity. Concepts covered in courses in this level could usually be expanded for in-depth study for level three. Level two courses may require prerequisites. Level two exams should accurately reflect the complexity of the course material and should clearly be more challenging than level one exams.

Level 3: Level three courses will generally require a strong background or understanding and will be most likely to require a prerequisite. Level three courses generally build upon concepts covered in level two. These courses will deal with more difficult concepts within the various categories of properties, appraisal processes, and statutory requirements. Courses in level three will generally include advanced assessment or appraisal concepts, advanced theory, advanced administrative practices, advanced computer applications, advanced coverage of the three approaches to value, valuation of special use properties using advanced techniques, and complex application-oriented projects. Level three studies could examine the valuation of complex shopping centers, complex manufacturing structures, and special use properties. Level three exams should accurately reflect the complexity of course material and should be clearly more challenging than level two exams.

Level 2 “refresher” coursework - A student may take any eligible Level 2 course for which he or she has not previously received credit if he or she has completed either

- ▶ 120 hours credit in Level 3 continuing education coursework or
- ▶ 600 total hours continuing education coursework.

Introductory assessment jurisdiction

In an introductory assessment jurisdiction with $10 million or less in non-farm EAV and less than $1 million in commercial and industrial EAV, Section 2-45(b) of the Property Tax Code (35 ILCS 200/2-45(b)) requires that a candidate must possess one of the following qualifications:

- ▶ If the candidate was previously elected to office in an assessment jurisdiction that in 1994 and thereafter had more than $10 million and less than $25 million in non-farm EAV and less than $1 million in commercial and industrial EAV, Section 2-45(d) of the Property Tax Code (35 ILCS 200/2-45(d)) requires that a candidate must possess one of the designations for a larger assessment jurisdiction under Section 2-45(c).

Candidates who plan to use either the department's Township Assessor —Introductory Course or the Certified Illinois Assessing Officer designation from the IPAI will need to complete the Certification Application on Page 29 for a Certificate of Qualification. Stipend Information

Training stipends — Under Section 4-10 of the Property Tax Code (35 ILCS 200/4-10), the department awards a stipend to any supervisor of assessments in counties with less than 3 million inhabitants and in which no county assessor has been elected under Section 3-45 (35 ILCS 200/3-45), township assessor, multi-township assessor, deputy assessor, or board of review member who has been awarded a Certified Illinois Assessing Officers designation from the Illinois Property Assessment Institute.

Under Section 4-15 of the Illinois Property Tax Code (35 ILCS 200/4-15), the department awards a stipend to any supervisor of assessments, township assessor, multi-township assessor, deputy assessor, or board of review member who has earned a Certified Assessment Evaluator certificate from the International Association of Assessing Officers. In addition, the department awards an additional stipend per year to any supervisor of assessments, township assessor, multi-township assessor, deputy assessor, or board of review member who has been awarded a Residential Evaluation Specialist, Assessment Administration Specialist, or Cadastral Mapping Specialist certificate by the International Association of Assessing Officers, but who has not been awarded a Certified Assessment Evaluator certificate. To continue to be eligible for additional compensation, a supervisor of assessments, township assessor, multi-township assessor, deputy assessor, or board of review member must successfully complete a minimum of 30 hours of qualified continuing education classes. (At least 15 of the 30 hours must be examination credit.)

The Illinois Department of Revenue is responsible for approving courses for the continuing education stipend. The department has approved over 1,000 courses for continuing education credit from over 120 appraisal organizations, universities, community colleges, and approved providers.

To qualify for the continuing education, a course must deal with the cost, market, and income approaches to value; mass appraisal techniques; property tax administration; business and computer techniques as required Section 4-10. The course must be of adequate substance to warrant approval for continuing education. The department reserves the right to reevaluate approved courses and change the amount or type of credit if the situation so warrants.

To request course approval for courses not approved by the department previously, please submit a copy of the course description, outline, time slots for each topic, dates for the course, and copies of all course handouts and materials. In order to receive examination credit, the Illinois Department of Revenue must have a copy of course examinations. Examinations must be stringent enough to warrant examination credit. If no exams are provided, the course may still qualify for seminar credit.

It is the individual's responsibility to provide the department with documentation to verify successful completion of any course not offered by the IPAI or Illinois Department of Revenue.

If there are any questions concerning the approval of any courses for continuing education, contact Brenda Cawley at the department at 217 785-6636, or email her at brenda.cawley@illinois.gov.
